

Congratulations on opening or growing your business in South Salt Lake! We know there is a lot to navigate when you're running a business, and our goal is to make it easier. Whether you're opening your doors for the first time, expanding your operations, or relocating to our city, this guide will help connect you with the people, departments, and resources available to support your success.

South Salt Lake is proud to be home to a diverse, innovative, and entrepreneurial business community. We believe local businesses are the foundation of a thriving city, and we're committed to helping you stay informed, connected, and engaged.

KNOW THE RULES (AND WHERE TO FIND THEM)

Understanding your property's zoning and applicable city regulations can save you time, money, and frustration as your business grows. Whether you're planning to install a new sign, host an event, renovate your space, expand your operations, or simply want to understand what's permitted at your location, these resources are a great place to start.

KNOW YOUR LOCAL LEADERSHIP

Local government helps shape the future of our business community. Understanding who represents your district, when City Council and Planning Commission meetings take place, and how public decisions are made gives you the opportunity to stay informed and participate when issues affect your business. You don't have to attend every meeting, but staying connected helps ensure your voice is heard.

GET INVOLVED IN YOUR COMMUNITY

Some of the strongest businesses are those that become part of the community around them. South Salt Lake offers countless opportunities to connect with residents, support local initiatives, collaborate with other businesses, and showcase what you do. Whether you're participating in Mural Fest, joining community celebrations, volunteering with Promise South Salt Lake, or engaging with the City's Creative Industries program, your involvement helps strengthen both your business and our community.
